Task Directions
- Teachers may choose to use or modify this sample as part of an instructional lesson or as a formative or summative assessment.
- Teachers should provide students access to the printable student version of the task items, which excludes GLE alignment, answer keys, and scoring information.
- Students should then read or review the sources and answer the questions.
- For additional specifications about the task, please see the Assessment Guidance for grade 5.
Primary and Authentic Sources

Read and study Sources 1 through 4 about early colonization. As you read, you may take notes in the space next to the documents or on page 5 in this answer document. Then use the documents to answer questions 1 through 12.

Source 3: Quote from Narraganset Native American, Miantonomo (1642)

“Our plains were full of deer, as also our woods, and of turkeys, and our coves [bays] full of fish and fowl. But these English having gotten our land, they with blades cut down the grass, and with axes cut down the trees; their cows and horses eat the grass, and their hogs spoil our clam banks, and we shall be starved.”

Source 4: Excerpt from African and Native Americans in Colonial and Revolutionary Time by Malinda Maynor Lowrey

...Joseph Louis Cook, the son of an African-American father and an Abenaki mother who had both been taken captive by the Iroquois. Cook himself was raised in the Mohawk community and played a prominent role fighting on behalf of the Continental Army during the American Revolution. The Mohawk are a matrilineal people (they trace their kinship and identity through their mothers), and so Cook would have likely identified himself as a member of the Iroquois confederacy; he married a Mohawk woman and served as a diplomatic chief of the Oneida.
Item 1: Multiple Choice

Which of the following statements best describes the relationship between Native Americans and Europeans in the early years of settlement?

☒ B. Europeans and Native American fought over the issue of African slavery in the early years of settlement.
☒ C. Native Americans and Europeans generally cooperated in the early years of settlement.
☐ D. Europeans and Native Americans did not interact in the early years of settlement.

Item 2: Multiple Choice

Based on Source 4, which of the following is an example of how Africans and Indigenous peoples interacted in the Americas?

☐ A. Enslaved Africans and Atakapa natives held the first Thanksgiving celebration.
☒ B. Indigenous peoples and French fur traders traded goods using the Mississippi River.
☒ C. African and Indigenous peoples intermarried, which led to cultural diffusion.
☐ D. Indigenous peoples constantly interacted with enslaved Africans to trade goods.

Item 3: Multiple Select

Which of the following factors motivated Europeans to immigrate to the British colonies in North America? Select three correct answers.

☒ A. the chance to move somewhere without European control
☒ B. the ability to avoid religious persecution in Europe
☒ C. economic troubles in Europe that caused people to lose their farmland
☐ D. opportunities to join Native American tribes
☐ E. promises by European rulers to share any gold found by settlers
☒ F. opportunities to own land and support a family

Item 4: Multiple Choice

How did geography influence European patterns of settlement?

☒ A. Europeans settled near water to improve access to trade.
☐ B. Europeans settled near mountains for protection.
☐ C. Europeans settled near grasslands to find a place to feed their animals.
☒ D. Europeans settled near rocky soil to have better agriculture.
Item 5: Multiple Select

Which early challenges did most European settlers face when settling new colonies in the Americas? Select three correct answers.

☒ A. starvation
☒ B. disease
☐ C. floods
☒ D. poor soil
☐ E. slave uprisings
☐ F. extended droughts

Item 6: Multiple Choice

Based on Source 2, how did the colonists’ experience in Britain affect ideas on religion in the northeastern British colonies?

☐ A. These colonies allowed new arrivals to the colony to practice any religion they chose.
☒ B. These colonies did not allow anyone to practice their religion.
☐ C. These colonies allowed for the free practice of religions that were not allowed in Britain.
☐ D. These colonies did not allow new arrivals to the colony to practice the established religion of the founders.

Item 7: Multiple Choice

Which of the following factors was most likely responsible for conflicts between Native Americans and European settlers?

☐ A. differences in religion
☒ B. competition for land
☐ C. spread of culture
☐ D. changes in geography

Item 8: Multiple Select

How did Native Americans way of life change after the arrival of European settlers in North America? Select the two correct answers.

☒ A. They had access to more trade goods like axes, fish hooks, and cooking utensils.
☐ B. They imported more slaves to make life easier for tribal women.
☒ C. They lost control of resources as Europeans took them for their own survival.
☐ D. They gained wealth after finding more gold and silver using European methods.
☐ E. They changed their tribal governments at the request of Europeans.
Item 9: Multiple Select

Based on Source 3, which of the following choices show conflict between the European settlers and Native peoples? Select the two correct answers.

☐ A. “...many of the Native peoples came amongst us and had an abundance of drink and food.”
☒ B. “...their cows and horses eat the grass...and we starved.”

Scoring Notes:

Economic influences:

- Use of capitalism as guiding economic philosophy
- Dominance of the plantation economy in the southern region
- Reliance on enslaved people from Africa as primary labor source

Social influences:

- The protection of religious freedom
- An emphasis on individual rights protected by government
- Use of a democratic system of government

The significance of these influences:

- Capitalist principles emerge as the foundation of the colonial economy. The abundance of resources in North America made trade with Europe profitable. Merchants established lucrative trade. Cash crops became so profitable that the need for labor was greater than what the colonists could maintain without the use of slavery.
- The plantation system began with the importation of the first Africans to North American 1619 and continued through the first few decades of the twentieth century, when the New Deal incentivized shifts away from large-scale agricultural economies.
- The debate over the use of enslaved people for labor divided the nation’s founders and contributed to the American Civil War. Several amendments to the U.S. Constitution outlawed slavery following the war, but the reliance on sharecroppers after the war and, more recently, migrant laborers carry with them a reminder of earlier labor forces.
- Several groups of European settlers came to North America to escape persecution over their religious beliefs, and they established the Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, and Rhode Island Colonies. This free practice of religion was codified in the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and it remains a part of our rights to this day.
- The debate over individual rights during the colonial period was especially evident during the events leading to the American Revolution, when colonists asserted their rights to representation, free assembly, jury trials, and self-government. During the debate over the U.S. Constitution, antifederalists insisted on the explicit inclusion of these rights in a Bill of Rights to be added to the document. This insistence on the protection of explicitly identified individual rights continues today.
- Colonial assemblies were the best example of democratic governments. The principles of democracy were included in the new nation’s founding documents and have remained the guiding force for the American government for over 240 years.
- Accept other reasonable responses.
