The chair reminded the council that an annual report, which should outline the activities of the council and any recommendations, is due prior to the end of the calendar year. Given the timeframe, the Department of Education staff support required by law, and the interest of some council members, the chair recommended that a small working group of council member volunteers work with her and Department staff to draft and finalize the report, which will be emailed to all council members, posted on the Department's website, and made available at the next meeting of the council.

Ms. Coco reviewed the Department of Education draft ESSA framework and discussed non-assessment measures for school and district accountability, research based data recommendations and school climate resources for discipline and attendance. The council discussed how to measure school performance using non-assessment indicators in ESSA and noted that many states are planning to address chronic absenteeism instead of school climate surveys. Training for cultural diversity for teachers was also discussed as a need and best practice. Council members indicated a desire to continue reviewing and discussing options available to strengthen Louisiana’s state plan under ESSA, and the Department will update the council on any future developments.

The council discussed priority issues, requested additional data from the Department, and expressed support for the chair’s suggestion to invite speakers who can share best practices on discipline and mental health.
