

Instructional materials are one of the most important tools educators use in the classroom to enhance student learning. It is critical that they fully align to state standards—what students are expected to learn and be able to do at the end of each grade level or course—and are high quality if they are to provide meaningful instructional support. Those closest to students are best positioned to decide which instructional materials are appropriate for their district and classrooms. The state can assist by providing guidance and information to support local districts and teachers in making those decisions.

To ensure that teachers and students have high-quality instructional materials:

- The Louisiana Legislature, through Act 389 of 2015, updated laws relative to the review and adoption of textbooks and other instructional materials.
- The State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education, through Bulletin 741 §1703, has updated regulations regarding the same.
- The Louisiana Department of Education (LDOE) has established a review process to assist local education agencies in identifying textbooks and other instructional materials that align to Louisiana state standards.

Local school systems have three options when adopting textbooks and other instructional materials:

- (1) Select materials evaluated through LDOE’s review process, which involves educators and parents;
- (2) Engage in a local review process of materials not reviewed by LDOE; or
- (3) Adopt a combination of state-reviewed materials and materials reviewed locally.¹

Local school systems can use the information in this document to establish and/or update their local policies and regulations, establish a timeline for adoption, and adopt and purchase textbooks and other instructional materials to support the needs of all students in meeting state academic standards.

¹ To the maximum extent practical, electronic instructional resources (e.g., textbooks, media, or other instructional content and materials) should be purchased and utilized [La. R.S. 17:351.1 \(C\)\(2\)].

OPTION 1: SELECT STATE-REVIEWED MATERIALS

The Department conducts ongoing reviews of instructional materials. This process supports local school systems and educators in making informed decisions regarding which materials to adopt and purchase locally. The state does not recommend or adopt textbooks or instructional materials.

All reviewed materials are made available on the Instructional Materials Review webpage. Local school systems can use these reviews to determine which materials are best suited for their local needs.

How are materials reviewed?

Materials are evaluated by a committee of Louisiana educators.² The committee reviews for alignment to the state academic standards using a rubric. Reviews are tiered based on their quality or alignment to state academic standards:

- Tier 1 materials exemplify quality and meet all criteria on the review rubric.
- Tier 2 materials are approaching quality. They meet the non-negotiable criteria on the review rubric.
- Tier 3 materials do not represent quality. They do not meet the non-negotiable criteria on the review rubric.

What is reviewed and when?

The Department calls for publishers to submit materials each year, which is posted on the Instructional Materials Review webpage. The Department also publishes a weekly report to provide districts with information about what reviews will be posted and by when and what is scheduled to be reviewed. Local school systems can use this information to make decisions regarding their local timelines and what might need to be reviewed locally.

Reviews are sent to the publisher for their comments, which are posted with each state review. All materials are also made available for review by the public.

How are materials purchased?

Materials rated Tier 1 or Tier 2 by the state-review process may be purchased under authority of a state contract through the central depository or the publisher directly.³ The Department has negotiated contract pricing with these publishers. Tier 3 materials not under state contract must be awarded based on a competitive basis and follow certain publisher agreements.⁴ Textbooks and instructional materials approved at the local level have no Minimum Foundation Program (MFP) funding restrictions⁵, so local school systems may purchase materials based on their local needs. They are not bound by a state list of recommended or approved textbooks and instructional materials.⁶

² Each year a committee of educators is selected through an application process. Any current Louisiana public school educator can apply to be a part of a review committee as a Teacher Leader Advisor. Access the application information through the Teacher Leader page.

⁵ While there are no restrictions on the use of MFP funds to purchase or acquire textbooks or other instructional materials, restrictions may exist in the use of other federal, state or local funds. Local school systems should verify eligible uses of funds used to support such materials.

OPTION 2: ENGAGE IN A LOCAL REVIEW PROCESS

Local school systems are not required to purchase state-reviewed materials listed on LDOE’s Instructional Materials Review webpage. However, to purchase instructional materials that have not been reviewed by LDOE, a local review process must be conducted.⁷

What are the requirements for a local review process?

Local school systems must follow certain requirements when engaging in reviews of instructional materials. They must establish a local review committee, develop evaluation criteria, and provide opportunities for parental and public input prior to the final adoption of instructional materials.

Requirement	Description	Resources
Local Review Committee(s) ⁸	The review committee should consist of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Employees of Louisiana public schools (i.e., classroom teachers, instructional coaches, district staff) • Parents of students in Louisiana public schools • Other Louisiana stakeholders 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sample Instructional Materials Review Teacher Application
Evaluation Criteria ⁹	The evaluation criteria must answer: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To what extent do materials align with state academic standards? • Do the materials accurately reflect the contributions and achievements of people of differing races? • Do the materials promote an understanding of the history and values of the people of the United States and Louisiana, including the free enterprise system, private property, constitutional liberties, democratic values, and traditional standards of moral values? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • State Instructional Materials Review rubrics
Parental and Public Input ¹⁰	Encourage family and community involvement by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Providing access to parent guides • Providing a link on a district webpage to the Louisiana Department of Education’s online review process 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sample public comments form • Parent Guides • Online Review Process

When should reviews be conducted?

Districts should develop a timeline for review and adoption of textbooks and other instructional materials. The following is a sample only.

Sample Local Review Timeline
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Establish local review timeline (Note: Local review required for materials not state reviewed) 	12 months prior to implementing new materials
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Invite publishers to participate in a local review for materials to be delivered the following school year Release local evaluation rubric criteria and guidance Conduct publisher orientation Select and train local review panel 	Allow approximately 3 weeks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Materials submission deadline Conduct local instructional materials review Seek parental and public input 	Allow approximately 2 months
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Select and approve textbooks and other instructional materials Conduct local pre-ordering for deliveries to begin July 1 of the fiscal year (Note: Include Braille, audio, large print, digital, and print; new Braille may require up to 8 months for conversion) 	5 months in advance of the school year
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Deliver textbooks and other instructional materials (all formats) 	July-August

How are materials purchased?

Locally reviewed instructional materials require publisher agreements¹¹ that:

- are awarded on a competitive basis;
- provide that the publisher, distributor, wholesaler, or retailer shall not charge a purchase price, rental fee, or other fee for the purchase, lease, or use of an instructional material that exceeds the lowest price or fee charged to a school governing authority in any other state for the same instructional material;
- provide that upon the request, a publisher or other content provider shall allow the of purchase textbooks and other instructional materials through the central depository; and
- require compliance with the National Instructional Materials Accessibility Standard, as consistent with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act of 2004 (20 U.S.C. 1474(e)) for the conversion of print instructional materials from which braille and large print textbooks can be produced for eligible students.

What are additional considerations for local adoption policy?

- Local school systems may establish the price and sell any textbook or library book no longer in use to any person or entity for private use.¹²

- While most home study programs provide their own curriculum and resources that are comparable to that provided in public schools, when requested and available, the following apply when loaning textbooks for use in a SBESE state-approved home study program.¹³ Local policy must include the following conditions. Parents or guardians must:
 - present a copy of the student’s approved Home Study application;
 - select textbooks from the listing available from the local education agency;
 - provide a deposit equal to 100 percent of the replacement cost, which must be returned upon course completion; and
 - return books or payment for any books not returned to continue participation.
