

Communication Support - Helpful Websites
Site	Description
Louisiana Assistive Technology Initiative (LATI)	The mission of LATI, funded by the LDOE, is to provide leadership and support to local education agencies and families in the development and implementation of assistive technology services that will have meaningful application for the educational, social, recreational, vocational, and developmental experiences of students with disabilities.
AAC Institute	A not-for-profit, charitable organization dedicated to the most effective communication for people who rely on augmentative and alternative communication (AAC).
Communication Matrix	This is an easy to use assessment instrument designed for individuals of all ages who function at the earliest stages of communication and who use any form of communication.
National Center on Deaf-Blindness	NCDB is a national technical assistance center funded by the US Department of Education. NCDB works to improve the quality of life for children who are deaf-blind.
AAC Intervention	This site provides information related to augmentative/ alternative communication interventions.
International Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication	ISAAC supports and encourages the best possible communication methods for people who find communication difficult.
USSAAC (U.S. Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication)	USSAAC (U.S. Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication) is dedicated to providing information and support on the issues, technology, tools and advancements within the world of AAC.
AAC-RERC (Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center)	The AAC-RERC is a Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center that functions as a collaborative research group dedicated to the development of effective AAC (augmentative and alternative communication) technology.
National Braille Press, Inc.	The National Braille Press promotes the literacy of blind children through braille and provides access to information that empowers blind people to actively engage in work, family, and community affairs.