Today you will read and think about the folktales “Coyote and Fire” and “How Big Bear Stuck to the Sky.” As you read these texts, you will gather information and answer questions about how the illustrations help you understand the folktales so you can write an essay. <pause>

Read the folktale “Coyote and Fire.” Then answer the questions. <pause>

Coyote and Fire <pause>

A Folktale from the Pacific Northwest <pause>

by D.M. Souza <pause>

- 1 Long ago when the world was young, people did not have Fire. They ate their meat and salmon raw. When cold winds blew, or snow covered the ground, they could not warm their houses. Only the skookums had Fire. These three evil sisters lived high on a mountain and would not share with anyone. <pause>
- 2 One icy cold winter, the people met Coyote on the road. “Please, Coyote,” they begged, “capture Fire from the skookums or we will freeze.” <pause>
- 3 “I will do what I can,” he said. <pause>
- 4 That night Coyote climbed the snow-covered mountain where the skookums lived. When he reached the top, he spotted Fire in the distance. Moving closer, he saw one of the skookums sitting in front of a house, warming herself by Fire. <pause>
- 5 For a long time Coyote watched until the skookum went to the door and called, “Sister, sister, get up. It’s your turn to guard Fire.” <pause>
- 6 The second sister appeared and took her place. After a while, she called the third sister. Coyote could hear the sleepy one yawning and groaning loudly inside. <pause>
- 7 “She is taking so long to come out, maybe I could seize Fire now,” Coyote whispered to himself. “But the skookums are swift. They would surely catch me before I got very far. I must think of a good plan.” <pause>
- 8 Coyote thought and thought, but his mind was foggy. So he asked his sisters, the three huckleberries who lived in his stomach. They were wise. They would surely know what to do. And they did. <pause>
- 9 Carefully, Coyote listened to their plan. Then he went back down the mountain and called together all the animals to tell them what they must do. <pause>
- 10 The next evening Coyote trudged up the mountainside again. Patiently he watched while the first two skookums took their turns in front of Fire. When the last sister was called, again only yawns and groans drifted outside. <pause>
- 11 Quick as an arrow, Coyote raced into the open, seized a burning stick, and ran across the snowy field. <pause>
- 12 “Aieeee, a thief!” Two skookums began chasing Coyote and throwing ice and snow at him. <pause>

- 13 Coyote's legs moved faster and faster. His feet barely touched the ground. Still, the skookums came closer. He could feel their fiery breath on his fur. One of the skookums grabbed the tip of his tail. Her hot hand burned it black. (Even today all coyotes have black tips on their tails.) <pause>
- 14 At last Coyote reached a thicket of shrubs and fell to the ground exhausted. Just at that moment Cougar jumped out, seized the burning stick, and disappeared down the mountainside. For a minute the skookums were confused. But soon they were racing after Cougar. <pause>
- 15 When Cougar reached a grove of trees, Fox was waiting. She took the burning stick and ran until she came to a tall tree. There Squirrel grabbed the flaming torch, raced up the trunk, and jumped from branch to branch. She leaped along even as the flickering flame burned a black spot on the back of her neck, and her tail curled forward. (Even today squirrels have black spots on their necks and their tails curl forward.) <pause>
- 16 At the forest's edge, the skookums almost caught up with Squirrel. That's when Antelope took the stick of Fire, sped across a meadow, and handed it to Deer. One animal after another passed Fire on, keeping it just out of reach of the skookums, until it became a tiny hot coal. <pause>

- 17 Frog swallowed the coal and hopped away, but he wasn't quick enough. A skookum grabbed hold of his tail. So Frog took the biggest leap he had ever taken and left his tail in the skookum's hand. (Even today frogs do not have tails.)
<pause>
- 18 Finally Frog slipped into a river and swam to the other side. By now he was too tired to jump again. He spit out the coal, and it landed on Wood. Wood swallowed it. <pause>
- 19 The skookums looked at one another. Neither one knew how to take Fire from Wood. With a heavy sigh and a shrug of their shoulders, they turned back and returned home to their still sleeping sister. <pause>
- 20 Meanwhile, Coyote told all the people to stand in a circle around Wood. He gathered branches and leaves and piled them high. Then he began rubbing two pieces of Wood together. <pause>
- 21 Minutes passed. The people watched. Suddenly sparks flew up. Coyote blew and blew as Fire slipped out of Wood. The flames danced higher and higher, and the people came closer, smiling when they felt Fire's warmth. Now they could cook their food and warm their homes. (Even today people know how to draw Fire out of Wood.) <pause>

Read the Native American folktale “How Big Bear Stuck to the Sky.” Then answer the questions. <pause>

How Big Bear Stuck to the Sky <pause>

A Native American Legend <pause>

Retold by Kathleen Muldoon <pause>

- 1 Once upon a time when Earth was young, Winter ruled. Snow and ice covered mountains and rivers, fields and forests. So hard was the floor between Earth and Sky that Sun could not peek through to warm the ground. <pause>
- 2 Animals that survived this harsh cold hunted to provide what little food they could for their young. A big bear, called Fisher because the magic in his tail helped him catch fish, decided it was time to bring Summer to Earth. <pause>
- 3 So Fisher invited all of Earth’s creatures to a meeting. <pause>
- 4 “We will find a way to warm Earth,” he said. “Sun will bring grass and flowers and birds. We must reach the Great Spirit and ask for help. Who will go with me to the place where Earth is closest to Sky?” <pause>
- 5 Otter, Lynx, and Wolverine agreed to accompany Fisher on his journey. They traveled across frozen lakes and rivers. Icy twigs snapped as they tramped through snowy woods. They climbed hills and slid through valleys. <pause>
- 6 Fisher swished his magical, stubby tail in the frigid waters and caught fish for them to eat along the way. After many days, he led them to the top of the tallest mountain on Earth, so high it almost tickled Sky. <pause>
- 7 There Fisher stood on his back paws and stretched, swiping his front claws on Sky’s floor. But he made only a tiny scratch. He could not break through to Sky. <pause>
- 8 “Let me try,” cried Otter. <pause>

- 9 He jumped so high his head thumped the sky floor. Otter fell back to Earth and WHOOSH! Down the mountain he slid, riding on his belly all the way to the bottom. <pause>
- 10 Next Lynx took a step back and pounced at Sky. THUNK! She hit her head so hard that she fell unconscious [not awake because of an injury] to the snow. Wolverine pushed her aside. <pause>
- 11 “I am the strongest,” he growled. <pause>
- 12 Wolverine leaped against Sky’s floor, once, twice, three times. Finally, he caused the tiniest of cracks to appear. He jumped again and again, widening the crack into a hole. Soon Wolverine climbed through the sky hole, followed by Fisher. <pause>
- 13 All at once, birds of every color and size surrounded them. Some swooshed through Wolverine’s hole and flew over Earth, spreading Sky’s warmth with each flap of their wings. <pause>
- 14 Soon Sun sent its rays through the hole, and Fisher and Wolverine watched as snow on the mountain-top began to melt. <pause>
- 15 “We must make the hole bigger,” Fisher said. He twitched his magic tail. Then, using his sharp teeth, he gnawed off more pieces of the sky floor. <pause>
- 16 Suddenly a band of Sky People ran toward them. <pause>
- 17 “Stop, thieves,” they cried, brandishing [waving something in anger or excitement] bows and arrows. “Stop stealing our warmth!” <pause>
- 18 Wolverine escaped through the hole and tumbled down the mountainside back to Earth. But Fisher kept working. By the time the Sky People reached him, he’d widened the hole enough so that Sun could warm Earth for half of every year. <pause>

- 19 Fisher ran from the Sky People’s arrows and climbed to the top of a tall tree. But one arrow struck Fisher’s tail and he began falling. Before he could hit Sky’s floor, the Great Spirit, admiring Fisher’s persistence [the quality of refusing to give up], took pity on the bear. He adorned [decorated] Fisher with stars, and set him in a place of honor in the sky. If you look to Sky on a starry night, you will see him there still. <pause>
- 20 The Great Bear constellation, also called Ursa Major, is one of the largest and easiest star groupings to find in the sky. This is because one group of stars within it looks like a soup ladle and is called the Big Dipper. It forms the back end and tail of the whole constellation, which resembles a bear. <pause>
- 21 On a clear night, if you study the northern sky, you will see Ursa Major if you look first for the Big Dipper. Ursa Major is highest in the spring sky and lowest in the autumn because, according to Native American legend, Bear is looking for a place to hibernate [to rest or be inactive for the winter] before winter. <pause>

Today you will research life in the Arctic. You will read the article “Life in a Deep Freeze” and a passage from the article “Inuit.” As you review these sources, you will gather information and answer questions about life in the Arctic so you can write an essay. <pause>

Read the article “Life in a Deep Freeze.” Then answer the questions. <pause>

Life in a Deep Freeze <pause>

by Sandra Markle <pause>

How do animals survive the Arctic’s c-c-cold winters? <pause>

- 1 It’s noon and dark and very cold—minus thirty degrees Fahrenheit. Snow and ice blanket the region. Strong winds blow across ice-covered ocean waters. It’s winter in the Arctic, one of the harshest environments on Earth. But, for many animals, this place is home. <pause>
- 2 So just where is the Arctic? It’s about as far north as you can go. It’s the North Polar region—the Arctic Ocean plus the lands bordering it. The landscape varies from high, icy mountains to tundra. That’s a treeless plain where a layer of soil remains frozen all year. Arctic animals have adapted well to their surroundings with some rather clever survival tactics. <pause>

ESCAPE ARTISTS <pause>

- 3 Some Arctic animals have found clever ways to wait out the long, harsh winters. <pause>
- 4 Grizzly Bear: This bear spends all spring, summer, and fall eating and storing up fat. Then the bear goes into a special type of sleep. During its winter sleep, the grizzly lives off its stored fat. To conserve energy, the bear’s internal temperature drops a few degrees. Its heart rate slows down too. <pause>
- 5 Collared Lemming: This furry relative of mice and rats changes its coat from grayish brown to white in winter. It also grows longer front claws. With their claws, lemmings dig tunnels under the wind-packed snow. There they live, protected from the cold and their predators. <pause>

THE LAYERED LOOK <pause>

- 6 For some animals, being fat means staying alive. That’s especially true for animals that hunt and live in the icy waters of the Arctic Ocean. <pause>
- 7 Walrus: This animal keeps warm even while digging for clams along the bottom of cold ocean waters. Under its inch-thick hide, the walrus has a nearly six-inch layer of blubber, or fat, to block out the cold. During deep-sea dives, warm blood shifts away from the skin surface to inside the body. This helps the walrus keep its body heat stable at about ninety-nine degrees Fahrenheit. When the walrus moves ashore, blood flows back to the skin. <pause>

- 8 Harp Seal: Protected by a thick layer of blubber, the harp seal spends most of its time in icy waters. The seal is a fast swimmer and can stay underwater for thirty minutes at a time. Its speed in the water allows it to escape its predator, the polar bear. In late winter, females climb onto a chunk of ice to give birth. A seal pup is born with a white, fluffy coat, but no blubber. The pup keeps the coat until it develops a layer of blubber. And that happens fast. On a diet of fat-rich mother's milk, a pup can gain over eighty pounds in just three weeks. <pause>

DRESSED FOR WINTER <pause>

- 9 Like you, many Arctic animals change their coats with the seasons. In winter these animals replace their summer coats with thicker ones to keep them warm when temperatures plunge. They'll wear their winter coats for a long time. Arctic winters can last for eight months. <pause>
- 10 Arctic Hare: The arctic hare living in the northernmost part of the Arctic stays white all year. But its fur coat grows thicker and longer in winter. The hare has small ears, which protect it too. Can you figure out how? Less skin is exposed to the cold, and small ears lose less body heat than larger ears. <pause>
- 11 Musk Ox: This animal has lots of hair to keep it warm. In fact the native Inuit people call it umingmak, meaning "the animal with skin like a beard." The musk ox's shaggy outer coat covers everything but its feet. Underneath this outer layer of long, coarse hair is even more hair—a soft, woolly coat. The musk ox sheds this undercoat when the weather gets warmer. Musk oxen also have curved hooves with sharp rims. That gives them solid footing on icy slopes. <pause>
- 12 Snowy Owl: Feathers keep this bird warm. The snowy owl's entire body—even its legs and toes—is covered with soft, fluffy feathers. On top of this coat is still another coat of overlapping feathers. When temperatures drop, the owl crouches on the ground behind an object that can block the wind. The owl stays still. Flying would use up precious heat energy. <pause>
- 13 Arctic Fox: As winter approaches, the fox replaces its brown summer fur for a longer, heavier snow-white coat. The new coat keeps the fox warm as well as hidden from predators, like the wolf. A special blood flow system helps the fox hang onto its normal body temperature. Warm blood flowing toward the fox's legs heats up the cool blood returning from its feet. That means that the arctic fox has a warm body and cold feet. Having cold feet helps too. Ice doesn't stick to cold toes. <pause>

Question 8.

Part A <pause>

What does the word harsh mean as it is used in paragraph 3 of “Life in a Deep Freeze”? <pause>

- A. located in a faraway region
- B. physically uncomfortable
- C. lasting for a long time
- D. easily managed

Part B <pause>

Which two sentences from the article help readers understand the meaning of the word harsh as it is used in paragraph 3? <pause>

- A. “Strong winds blow across ice-covered ocean waters.” (paragraph 1)
- B. “It’s about as far north as you can go.” (paragraph 2)
- C. “This bear spends all spring, summer, and fall eating and storing up fat.” (paragraph 4)
- D. “The seal is a fast swimmer and can stay underwater for thirty minutes at a time.” (paragraph 8)
- E. “Like you, many Arctic animals change their coats with the seasons.” (paragraph 9)
- F. “When temperatures drop, the owl crouches on the ground behind an object that can block the wind.” (paragraph 12)

Question 9.

Part A <pause>

The author of “Life in a Deep Freeze” begins the article with the question: <pause>

How do animals survive the Arctic’s c-c-cold winters? <pause>

Which answer to this question reveals the main idea of the article? <pause>

- A. Some animals have fur that changes color with the seasons. Having white fur in the winter helps the animals hide from their predators. Thick fur also keeps the animals warm.
- B. Animals like the musk ox have a thick outer layer of hair and an undercoat of soft wool. The musk ox can shed the undercoat in the summer when the weather gets warmer.
- C. Animals use more than one adaptation for surviving in a cold environment. Different animals use different tactics to keep warm, blend in, and hide from their predators.
- D. Several types of animals have thick layers of blubber. Thick layers of fat can keep animals warm even when they are swimming in icy water. The blubber blocks out the cold.

Part B <pause>

Which sentence from the article supports the answer to Part A? <pause>

- A. “But, for many animals, this place is home.” (paragraph 1)
- B. “Arctic animals have adapted well to their surroundings with some rather clever survival tactics.” (paragraph 2)
- C. “For some animals, being fat means staying alive.” (paragraph 6)
- D. “As winter approaches, the fox replaces its brown summer fur for a longer, heavier snow-white coat.” (paragraph 13)

Question 10.

Part A <pause>

How do the section headings: ESCAPE ARTISTS, THE LAYERED LOOK, and DRESSED FOR WINTER help readers better understand the information in the article?

<pause>

- A. They help readers locate specific places where animals live.
- B. Their unusual titles show readers why animals have found clever survival tactics.
- C. They divide the information about how animals adapt in different ways.
- D. Their descriptive titles help readers understand the challenges of living in the Arctic.

Part B <pause>

Section headings in the article contain key details about animals in the Arctic. <pause>

Drag each characteristic that is typical of Arctic animals into the space in the chart with the correct subheading. <pause>

You will select two characteristics for each section heading. <pause>

Arctic Animal Characteristics	Section Headings
	Escape Artists
	The Layered Look
	Dressed for Winter

sleeping all winter

 using fat to block the cold growing another coat digging under the snow
 protected by blubber

The columns of the table are labeled: “Arctic Animal Characteristics,” and “Section Headings.” <pause>

The section headings are: “Escape Artists,” “The Layered Look,” and “Dressed for Winter.” <pause>

Sleeping all winter; covered with feathers; using fat to block the cold; growing another coat; digging under the snow; protected by blubber. <pause>

Read the passage from the article “Inuit.” Then answer the questions. <pause>

from “Inuit” <pause>

by Carol White <pause>

- 1 In one of the most remote places in the world, the Canadian Arctic, a people have survived over a thousand years. They are the Inuit. For the Inuit, the Arctic is a place teeming with life. Depending on how far north they live, the Inuit find everything from caribou herds and polar bears to beluga whales. The Inuit have adapted themselves to the various regions they inhabit. At one time they were considered to be among the healthiest people in the world. This is no longer the case; the Inuit lifestyle has changed dramatically over the past decades. The arrival of southerners and modern technology resulted in big changes to the Inuit diet and way of life. <pause>
- 2 Today, the Inuit are rediscovering their rich heritage and they are learning to govern themselves in a modern world. <pause>

Way of Life <pause>

- 3 When you live in an environment that has few plants, there is a very good chance you will become a hunter. The Inuit pride themselves on being great hunters. The Inuit had lots of sea and land animals to hunt. The most important of these were the caribou and the seal. These two animals provided the Inuit with food. Their skin was used for clothing, blankets, tents and boats and their oil was used for cooking and lamps. Bones, ivory and wood were used to make tools. Other animals the Inuit hunted were the walrus, whale, polar bear, musk ox, fox and wolf. <pause>

Food <pause>

- 4 Because edible plants are scarce in the Arctic, the Inuit ate mostly meat they got from hunting. They ate animals such as caribou, seals, walruses, polar bears, arctic hares, musk oxen, birds such as ptarmigan, and fish such as arctic char, salmon and whitefish. In the summer they also gathered berries and other edible plants. <pause>

Clothing <pause>

- 5 Seal or walrus intestine is waterproof, and the Inuit scraped, cleaned, soaked and dried the intestines to make waterproof clothing. This kept the people dry, which was important since water freezes quickly in the North. People can get into a lot of trouble if they get wet in the Arctic and then freeze. Besides waterproof clothing, the Inuit also made parkas of caribou fur to wear in the cold winter. <pause>

- 6 At one point, scientists in Canada did a study to find out what the warmest winter clothes were. This included clothes that were sewn out of cloth, wool and other fabrics. The caribou jacket was the warmest by far. Even in winter, Inuit could not sleep with their jackets on because they got so hot that they would sweat. Sweat is dangerous in a cold climate because, like water, it freezes. <pause>

Shelter <pause>

- 7 At one time the Inuit had a summer home and a winter home. In the summer, the Inuit often lived in tents that they made from caribou hides with wooden frames. In the winter many Inuit lived in sod homes. They would dig a hole in the ground and pile rocks and sod all around the outside to make walls. Pieces of wood or whalebone were used as a frame for the roof, which the Inuit then covered with sod. In both the tents and the sod houses the Inuit built raised platforms at the back for sleeping. <pause>
- 8 The Inuit are famous for their igloos. An igloo is built of blocks of snow shaped into a dome. They were mostly used as temporary shelter during winter hunting trips. The igloo is one of the Inuit's best inventions. It is warm and easy to construct. Most Inuit today have settled in villages and live in houses. <pause>

Question 11.

Part A <pause>

What does the word teeming suggest as it is used in paragraph 1 of “Inuit”? <pause>

- A. challenging
- B. abandoned
- C. plenty
- D. modern

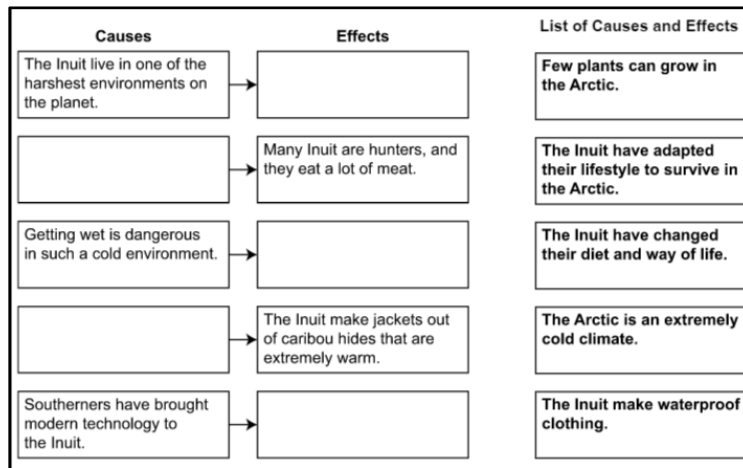

Part B <pause>

Which two sentences from the article help readers understand the meaning of the word teeming as it is used in paragraph 1? <pause>

- A. “In one of the most remote places in the world, the Canadian Arctic, a people have survived over a thousand years.” (paragraph 1)
- B. “Depending on how far north they live, the Inuit find everything from caribou herds and polar bears to beluga whales.” (paragraph 1)
- C. “At one time they were considered to be among the healthiest people in the world.” (paragraph 1)
- D. “Today, the Inuit are rediscovering their rich heritage and they are learning to govern themselves in a modern world.” (paragraph 2)
- E. “They ate animals such as caribou, seals, walruses, polar bears, arctic hares, musk oxen, birds such as ptarmigan, and fish such as arctic char, salmon and whitefish.” (paragraph 4)
- F. “In the summer they also gathered berries and other edible plants.” (paragraph 4)

Question 12.

How are the ideas in “Inuit” related to each other? Drag ideas from the List of Causes and Effects to complete the chart. <pause>

A Once-in-a-Lifetime Experience <pause>

by Sandra Beswetherick <pause>

- 1 It was my idea to invite Derrick, the new kid in our neighborhood, on our annual father-and-son weekend trip. Derrick had never been camping or fishing. <pause>
- 2 “Great idea!” Dad said. “It’ll be a once-in-a-lifetime experience for him, one he’ll never forget.” <pause>
- 3 Dad and I didn’t realize how true that would turn out to be. <pause>
- 4 The car blew a tire on the way to our campsite. Not an impressive start. <pause>
- 5 “A minor setback, that’s all,” Dad said as Derrick and I tumbled out of the car to help. <pause>
- 6 It was dark by the time we reached the campsite, got the boat into the water, and set up the tent. There was a stiff, icy breeze blowing off the lake. <pause>
- 7 Derrick shivered as he examined the sky. “That isn’t snow, is it?” <pause>
- 8 “Snow?” I said. <pause>
- 9 “It never snows in March!” Dad protested. <pause>
- 10 But those big flakes fell fast and heavy, blanketing the ground. <pause>
- 11 I burst out laughing. Derrick grinned. But Dad was horrified. He hustled us into the tent so we wouldn’t catch pneumonia [get sick] or something. But first he made sure we didn’t track any snow into the tent with us. <pause>
- 12 “We need to keep the floor dry,” Dad insisted. “There’s nothing worse than sleeping in wet sleeping bags.” <pause>
- 13 He passed out sandwiches after we settled in. “Minor setback,” he assured Derrick. “The snow should be gone tomorrow.” Dad reached for the large bottle of cola to pour us each a drink. <pause>
- 14 Maybe the cola was warm, or maybe it had been jostled too much, because when Dad opened it, that bottle erupted like Mount Vesuvius. Cola overflowed like lava. Dad dropped the bottle. It rolled across the tent floor spewing its contents, and we ended up perched on our sleeping bags like castaways adrift [floating] in a cola sea. <pause>
- 15 Derrick clapped both hands over his mouth. His face turned red, and his cheeks ballooned out as if he were about to explode, too. From behind his hands came the snuffling and snorting of trapped laughter. <pause>
- 16 I tried to keep a straight face, out of respect for Dad—not just because he’d insisted that we keep the tent floor dry, but because he’d wanted this trip to be perfect. <pause>

- 17 “Minor setback,” Dad muttered as we soaked up cola with our towels. <pause>
- 18 The next morning dawned bright and beautiful, much to Dad’s relief. Derrick stood at the water’s edge, admiring the clear still lake, the tree-lined shore, and the cloudless sky. <pause>
- 19 “Wait until you catch your first fish, Derrick,” Dad said as he got the boat ready. “That’s an experience you won’t forget.” Dad turned to me. “Right, Steve?” <pause>
- 20 “Right, Dad,” I answered. <pause>
- 21 “And wait until you taste some fried, freshly caught fish for breakfast,” Dad said. “Right, Steve?” <pause>
- 22 “Right, Dad,” I said, although I thought Dad was trying a little too hard. <pause>
- 23 But Derrick didn’t catch his first fish. In fact, none of us felt even a nibble on our lines. This wasn’t a minor setback for Dad. This was a major disaster. <pause>
- 24 The silence grew. The still air settled hot and heavy. <pause>
- 25 I leaned over the side of the boat. “Fishy,” I sang into the depths of the lake. “Come on, I know you’re down there.” It sure beat sitting around in silence. And we weren’t catching any fish anyway. <pause>
- 26 Derrick joined in. “Fishy,” he crooned, looking down into the water. “Here, fish, fish.” When he turned back to me, his eyes were bulged, his mouth was puckered, and he was gulping down air the way a fish gulps water. The perfect fish-face! <pause>
- 27 I let out a whoop and made a fish-face of my own, my open hands on either side of my head for gills. “Fishy!” <pause>
- 28 Derrick and I turned our fish-faces toward Dad. There sat Dad with the goggled eyes and downturned frown of his favorite fish, the largemouth bass. “Fishy, fishy, bite my hook,” he chanted in a throaty voice, “so I can take you home to cook.” <pause>
- 29 Derrick hooted with laughter and fell into the bottom of the boat. Dad’s bass frown upturned into a grin. <pause>
- 30 Lucky that Dad’s mood improved when it did, because it was about then that the boat started sinking. <pause>
- 31 “Mr. Adams,” Derrick asked, “should there be this much water in your boat?” <pause>
- 32 “Holy mackerel!” Dad yelled. He reached for the motor. “You guys, bail! [scoop water out of the boat]” <pause>
- 33 We barely reached shore, the boat sloshing with water. <pause>
- 34 That night, as we sat around the campfire toasting marshmallows, Derrick admitted he’d been worried about coming on the trip. “But it’s been incredible,” he said. “I’ll never forget it. Thanks for inviting me.” <pause>
- 35 “You’re welcome,” said Dad. “We’re glad you came.” <pause>

- 36 “I wonder what will happen next?” Derrick asked, putting another marshmallow on his stick. <pause>
- 37 “Yeah,” I said. “I wonder.” <pause>
- 38 As for Dad, he smiled a brave smile. <pause>

Shadow of a flower,
 Shadow of the moon.
 Shadow of a tree trunk,
 Shadow of the moon.
 5 Searching for shadows,
 we run, hop, stare...
 at lots of shadows
 here and there.
 Dragonfly shadows
 10 zip and pop.
 Running horse shadows
 never stop!
 Our shadowy shapes
 shift as we dance.
 15 Leg kick! Leg kick!
 Prance, prance, prance!
 My friend catches
 my shadow’s hand.
 Hand in shadow,
 20 we walk the sand.
 A ball and its shadow
 fall and meet, rolling to my shadow’s feet.
 25 We outline shadows
 with a piece of chalk.
 But later they’ve moved on the hot sidewalk.
 A man keeps a shadow
 30 under his hat.
 An umbrella opens.
 A shadow falls.
 Splat!
 Clouds move in—

35 sponging shadows away.
 But the shadows return with the sun. Let's play!
 Hand shadows hop
 through the tall, green grass.
 40 Underwater shadows
 Follow four fast bass.
 Toe shadows walk
 on the bottom of a creek.
 Sudden scary shadows
 45 make us shriek!
 Bird shadows skim
 over shrubs and rocks.
 Sundial shadows
 turn like clocks.
 50 Tree shadows make cool spots to rest.
 I think I like

Read the story “An Earful.” Then answer the questions. <pause>

An Earful <pause>

by Dale-Marie Bryan <pause>

- 1 “Your homework is to collect sounds,” Mrs. Olson said. She handed out sheets of paper shaped like giant ears. Then she held up a shiny blue kazoo. [a small musical instrument] “Everyone who gets an ‘earful’ will get one of these.” The class laughed. <pause>
- 2 Later, Jacob glared out the school bus window. Not fair, he thought. How could he collect enough sounds on his family’s farm? There were plenty of noises in town. If only he lived where tires squealed and sirens wailed. <pause>
- 3 Jacob scrambled off the bus when it screeched to a stop at his mailbox. But he wasn’t in the mood to wave as it drove away. <pause>
- 4 When he threw open the gate, it groaned like a ghost. That was how he felt about his homework. <pause>
- 5 On the porch, Jacob knelt beside the kittens curled on the rug. They sounded like tiny motors when they purred. <pause>
- 6 “I’m home!” Jacob called. He thumped his book bag down on a kitchen chair. <pause>
- 7 The rocker in the nursery stopped creaking. <pause>
- 8 “How was school?” his mother asked, walking in with his baby brother on her shoulder. She was patting his little back. <pause>
- 9 “I’ve got homework,” Jacob grumbled. <pause>
- 10 The baby burped, and Jacob laughed. “That’s what I think about it too!” <pause>
- 11 “Have a snack before you do your chores,” his mother said. She took the animal crackers down from the cupboard. <pause>
- 12 Jacob rattled the carton. Not many left. He crunched two tigers, three lions, and a seal, then gulped down some milk. Grrr, roar, ork! If only animal crackers were real. He would have plenty of noises to list! <pause>
- 13 Goldie, Jacob’s collie, woofed [a sound made by a dog] as Jacob walked toward the barn. Her puppies were yipping in a straw-filled stall. Jacob plinked [a sound made when an object hits metal] dog-food pellets into their pan, and the pups snuffled and crunched. <pause>
- 14 In the chicken house, Jacob shooed two cackling hens from their nests. He slipped their warm eggs into his pocket. Wouldn’t it be funny if he forgot about the eggs and they hatched? He’d have a peeping pocket! <pause>
- 15 In the corral, a black cow napped in the sun. Jacob woke her when he poured corn into her pan. “Moo, thank you!” she seemed to say. <pause>

- 16 Tap, clatter, clink. Dad drove the tractor into the yard. The lid on the tractor’s smokestack [a pipe that lets out smoke] rattled when it chuffed [a sound made by a tractor] and chugged to a stop. <pause>
- 17 “How was school?” Dad asked, stepping down from the cab. <pause>
- 18 Jacob shrugged. “OK, I guess,” he said. “I have some homework.” <pause>
- 19 Jacob put the eggs in the kitchen, then climbed to his tree house. He could see Dad’s beehives by the hay field. Six hives usually meant plenty of humming. But today he couldn’t hear it over the scolding of the blue jays and the chattering of the sparrows. How could a person think? <pause>
- 20 “QUIET!” Jacob shouted. <pause>
- 21 Suddenly, he sat up straight. Cows mooed and puppies yipped. Chickens cackled in their yard. When Goldie began barking below, Jacob grinned. There were plenty of noises on the farm. “I hear you!” he called. <pause>
- 22 He hurried down from the tree. He had an earful of homework to do. <pause>

Read the passage from “What Is a Spacewalk?” Then answer the questions. <pause> from “What Is a Spacewalk?” <pause>

by NASA <pause>

Ed White was the first American to perform a spacewalk. <pause>

Why Do Astronauts Go on Spacewalks? <pause>

- 1 Astronauts go on spacewalks for many reasons. Spacewalks let astronauts work outside their spacecraft while still in space. Astronauts can do science experiments on a spacewalk. Experiments can be placed on the outside of a spacecraft. This lets scientists learn how being in space affects different things. <pause>
- 2 Spacewalks also let astronauts test new equipment. They can repair satellites or spacecraft that are in space. By going on spacewalks, astronauts can fix things instead of bringing them back to Earth to fix. <pause>

How Do Astronauts Go on Spacewalks? <pause>

- 3 When astronauts go on spacewalks, they wear spacesuits to keep themselves safe. Inside spacesuits, astronauts have the oxygen they need to breathe. They have the water they need to drink. <pause>
- 4 Astronauts put on their spacesuits several hours before a spacewalk. The suits are pressurized. This means that the suits are filled with oxygen. <pause>
- 5 Once in their suits, astronauts breathe pure oxygen for a few hours. Breathing only oxygen gets rid of all the nitrogen in an astronaut’s body. If they didn’t get rid of the nitrogen, the astronauts might get gas bubbles in their body when they walk in space. These gas bubbles can cause astronauts to feel pain in their shoulders, elbows, wrists and knees. This pain is called getting “the bends” because it affects the places where the body bends. Scuba divers can also get “the bends.” <pause>

- 6 Astronauts are now ready to get out of their spacecraft. They leave the spacecraft through a special door called an airlock. The airlock has two doors. When astronauts are inside the spacecraft, the airlock is airtight so no air can get out. When astronauts get ready to go on a spacewalk, they go through the first door and lock it tight behind them. They can then open the second door without any air getting out of the spacecraft. After a spacewalk, astronauts go back inside through the airlock. <pause>

Astronauts on the International Space Station exit their spacecraft for a spacewalk through the Quest airlock. <pause>

How Do Astronauts Stay Safe During Spacewalks? <pause>

- 7 When on a spacewalk, astronauts use safety tethers to stay close to their spacecraft. Tethers are like ropes. One end is hooked to the spacewalker. The other end is connected to the vehicle. The safety tethers keep astronauts from floating away into space. Astronauts also use tethers to keep tools from floating away. They tether their tools to their spacesuits. <pause>
- 8 Another way astronauts stay safe during spacewalks is by wearing a SAFER. SAFER stands for Simplified Aid for EVA Rescue. SAFER is worn like a backpack. It uses small jet thrusters to let an astronaut move around in space. If an astronaut were to become untethered and float away, SAFER would help him or her fly back to the spacecraft. Astronauts control SAFER with a small joystick, like on a video game. <pause>

Question 28.

Part A <pause>

How does the first picture in the passage support the idea that spacewalks can be dangerous for astronauts? <pause>

- A. by showing how thin and light the spacesuits are
- B. by showing an astronaut doing work in space
- C. by showing how an astronaut is connected to a spacecraft
- D. by showing a tool used on a spacewalk

Part B <pause>

Which detail from the passage best supports the answer to Part A? <pause>

- A. “They can repair satellites or spacecraft that are in space.” (paragraph 2)
- B. “Once in their suits, astronauts breathe pure oxygen for a few hours.” (paragraph 5)
- C. “These gas bubbles can cause astronauts to feel pain in their shoulders, elbows, wrists and knees.” (paragraph 5)
- D. “The safety tethers keep astronauts from floating away into space.” (paragraph 7)

Question 29.

Part A <pause>

What is one kind of important work that astronauts do when they are on a spacewalk? <pause>

- A. Astronauts fly through space to explore during spacewalks.
- B. Astronauts hook tools onto their spacecraft during spacewalks.
- C. Astronauts can make repairs to objects during spacewalks.
- D. Astronauts do scientific tests on their bodies during spacewalks.

Part B <pause>

Which detail from the passage supports the answer to Part A? <pause>

- A. “. . . lets scientists learn how being in space affects different things.” (paragraph 1)
- B. “. . . fix things instead of bringing them back to Earth to fix.” (paragraph 2)
- C. “. . . can cause astronauts to feel pain in their shoulders, elbows, wrists and knees.” (paragraph 5)
