The purpose of the Online Practice Test is to help prepare you for the Spring LEAP 2025 test. The practice test will allow you to become familiar with the online testing format, to practice using the online tools, and to respond to the types of questions you will answer on the Spring LEAP 2025 test.
Read each source and question carefully. To move through the sources, use the pointer tool to move the scroll bar up and down. To keep track of each source, use the source numbers.

To answer test questions, you may have to click on answer bubbles, type in a response box, or follow the item-specific directions.

There are online tools available as you move through the test. For example, you can use the Next and Back buttons to move from question to question, the Flag button to mark any question you want to return to, and the Review/End Test button to review your answers. If you have questions about any of the online tools, select the Help button or ask your test administrator for assistance.

When you have completed the test, follow the directions on the screen to exit the session.

Keep in mind that once you exit the test, you cannot go back into the session.

German Settlement in Louisiana

The swampy region west of New Orleans came to be known as the German Coast, because German settlers began to arrive there in the early 1700s. They established farms and married early French settlers. Food from those farms fed the people in the struggling settlement of New Orleans. In later decades, German settlers married Acadian settlers and helped to create Cajun culture. Historians believe that Germans introduced the accordion to Cajun music.

The map shows a large circular area that is called “Lac Pontchartrain,” on the right side of the map, which connects to a smaller circular area called “Lac Maurepas,” in the upper center of the map. The surrounding areas are covered with drawings to represent land. Below “Lac Pontchartrain” is an area called “Nlle Orleans.”

Seafood paella is a rice dish that was first made in Spain. It was a favorite of people from the Canary Islands, a Spanish community off the coast of Africa. From 1778 to 1783, Spain gave about two thousand Canary Islanders land and homes in Spanish-controlled land in Louisiana. The Canary Islanders kept many traditions and ways of life after moving to Louisiana, such as making seafood paella.

In the 1600s and 1700s, many French immigrants settled in Canada. When the French and Indian War broke out, Great Britain took control of the colonies in Canada. In 1755 the French colonists, known as Acadians, were forced to leave their homes. Some returned to Europe, and some settled in other places in the New World. This newspaper article explains what happened when a large group of Acadians came to Louisiana in the late 1700s.

Near the end of last year, several large French ships with about one thousand Acadian families arrived at New Orleans. The Spanish government gave the Acadians land in different parts of Louisiana. A number of Acadians are also expected to settle in Florida.

Giving the unlucky Acadians land seems like an act of kindness. The Spanish king would consider any such request. However, giving land to the Acadians also prevents Americans from settling on this fertile [good for growing food] land.

Haitians Flee to Louisiana (1791)

The French ruled western Hispaniola, now called Haiti, from 1625 until 1791. The drawing shows the burning of a city during the unrest that ended French rule. Thousands of Haitians, whose families came from France and Africa, fled to New Orleans. These immigrants helped to develop Louisiana’s Creole culture.
Question 1
Based on Source 1, how did German settlers meet their needs by changing the land in the areas they settled?

A. They dug holes to look for gold.
B. They cleared land to build farms.
C. They built seaports to encourage trade.
D. They grew potatoes to feed themselves.

Question 2
Based on Source 1, how did German immigrants mainly change Louisiana?

Select the two correct answers.

A. They helped feed the people of the settlement.
B. They married each other and had many children.
C. They made a lot of money by farming.
D. They blended with other cultures to create a new culture.
E. They established a new form of government.

Question 3:
Based on Source 2, why did Spain encourage Canary Islanders to immigrate to Louisiana?

A. Canary Islanders were good sailors and wanted to travel.
B. Canary Islanders did not like the weather in Florida.
C. Spain did not want settlers to move back to Europe.
D. Spain did not want American settlers to live in its colony.

Question 4:
Based on Source 2, how did many Canary Islanders adapt to living in Louisiana?

A. They built boats to catch seafood.
B. They created their own kind of music.
C. They settled on farms to grow food.
D. They helped make room for other settlers.
Question 5:
Based on Source 3 and Source 4, why did both Acadian and Haitian immigrants come to Louisiana?

A. to escape slavery in their home countries
B. to take fertile land from other settlers
C. to get away from political trouble at home
D. to practice their religions freely

Question 6:
Based on all of the sources, which statement best explains why different groups of immigrants settled in different parts of Louisiana?

A. Immigrants settled in places that nobody else wanted to settle.
B. Immigrants settled in places that were rich in mineral resources.
C. Immigrants settled in places that offered the same food they ate in their old countries.
D. Immigrants settled in places that allowed them to use the skills they learned in their old countries.

New Orleans Building

This postcard shows a three-story brick building in the French Quarter. The wrought-iron railing around the balcony on the second floor is an example of Spanish culture. A horse-drawn carriage is parked on the street lit only by streetlamps.
Gumbo is an excellent example of cultural blending. This dish is closely identified with South Louisiana. It blends African, European, and Native American cultures. The word itself is from the Bantu word for okra, nkombo. The okra plant was brought to America by Portuguese traders. Some of the spices are from the Native Americans. The origin of gumbo is often credited to the French bouillabaisse [a spicy soup made from different kinds of fish], but the strong preference for soups in Africa strengthened the tradition.

Farmers’ Market

A customer looks over different kinds of fresh vegetables at a farmers’ market in Covington, Louisiana. Farmers’ markets give growers a chance to sell directly to people. Usually, farmers sell their crops to grocery stores or restaurants. South Louisiana’s mild climate means farmers have good weather for growing crops, even in winter. As a result, farmers’ markets in Louisiana are becoming more popular.

Question 7:
Which statement best explains why the building in Source 1 shows a Spanish influence?

A. Louisiana used to be ruled by the Spanish.
B. Louisiana was located on a Spanish trade route.
C. The Spanish built most of the houses in Louisiana.
D. The Spanish established the first settlements in Louisiana.

Question 8:
Based on Source 2, which statement about gumbo is most likely true?

A. Gumbo was invented by the French.
B. Soups with seafood are called gumbo.
C. Gumbo was first made in Africa.
D. Many cultures helped create gumbo.

Question 9:
Using Source 3, which statement best explains why farming is important to the economy of Louisiana?

A. Farming draws many tourists to the state.
B. Farming provides income to many people in the state.
C. Farming draws business from all over the world to the state.
D. Farming provides more jobs than any other business in the state.

Question 10:
Based on Source 1 and Source 2, which statement best describes how Louisiana culture has grown over time?

A. Louisiana culture has changed very little.
B. Louisiana culture has blended parts of other cultures.
C. Louisiana culture has become more like cultures in other states.
D. Louisiana culture has been copied by other states.
Question 11:
Based on Source 3, how did people adapt to the physical environment of southern Louisiana?

A. They grew crops all year long.
B. They developed new kinds of food.
C. They opened new restaurants.
D. They sold food at different markets.

Question 12:
Based on Source 4, why is zydeco music a good example of Louisiana culture?

A. Zydeco is played by using tools as instruments.
B. Zydeco was created by musicians in Louisiana.
C. Zydeco was brought to Louisiana by immigrants.
D. Zydeco is enjoyed by people all over the world.

From The Journals of Henri Joutel (1687) by Henri Joutel

In this quotation, French explorer Henri Joutel describes Caddo homes.

There are normally eight or ten families in these huts, which are very large; some are 60 feet in diameter [the distance through the center of a circle from one side to the other]. . . . These are round, in the shape of beehives, or rather like large haystacks. . . . They are covered with grass from the ground to the top. They make a fire in the center, the smoke going out the top through the grass.

Adapted from Historical Journal (1699)

This text describes a meeting between Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville and the Natchez tribe. It was most likely written by someone traveling with d'Iberville.

When we arrived near the Natchez village, the ambassador [a person who represents a group] sang several songs of peace, accompanied by loud yells. The Indians gathered on the bank of the river, where they had cut the cane away to receive us. The chief was surrounded by about sixty persons. D'Iberville was greeted by them in the usual manner. They began by raising their arms towards the sun, as in respect, then passed their hands over his chest, which is a curious form of affection [love or caring] among them. They then brought us Indian corn. D'Iberville then handed out beads, needles, looking-glasses, knives, and other gifts.
The Natchez

This drawing shows a Plaquemine village at the Holly Bluff site in Mississippi. The Plaquemine were ancestors [people who came before] of the Natchez. Like the Plaquemine, the Natchez built mounds in their villages. The mounds were topped with sacred [important in a religious way] buildings where they held religious services. The Natchez lived on family farms near the mounds. They grew corn, beans, and squash. They hunted, fished, and gathered wild plants for food.

The Natchez also made tools, such as the animal-bone awls shown in the picture. Awls are used for poking holes in things. <pause>

The Caddo

This drawing shows members of the Caddo tribe building a hut at Poverty Point in Louisiana. The Caddo lived in villages they built around mounds. Archeologists [scientists who study the bones, tools, and other things of ancient people to learn how they lived] believe the Caddo may have used these mounds for religious ceremonies.

The Caddo grew their food. They also hunted and fished. The Caddo used tools like those in the picture to cut down trees and chop wood.

Question 13:
Based on Source 2, which statement best describes the relationship between d’Iberville and the Native Americans he met with?

A. They were suspicious of each other.
B. They were angry with each other.
C. They respected each other.
D. They admired each other.

Question 14:
Based on Source 2, why did the Natchez most likely raise their hands to the sun?

A. They believed the sun sent them important messages.
B. They believed the sun should be feared because of its great heat.
C. They believed the sun had to be honored or it would disappear.
D. They believed the sun was an important part of the natural world.

Question 15
Which statement best explains why the Caddo and the Natchez built villages as shown in Source 1, Source 3, and Source 4?

A. They needed mountains so they could build temples.
B. They needed iron and other minerals to make weapons.
C. They depended on trade with European settlers to get enough food.
D. They depended on a large group of fellow tribe members for survival.

Question 16:
Based on Source 3 and Source 4, which statement best describes the physical features of the places where the Caddo settled and the places where the Natchez settled?

A. They settled near mountains with plenty of stones for building.
B. They settled in flat areas with water and good soil for crops.
C. They settled in forests with wildlife and plants they could eat.
D. They settled near oceans with seafood that could be traded.
Question 17:

Describe two ways that the environment influenced the Natchez and Caddo cultures.

National Days of Service

This text is from Volunteer Louisiana. The group talks about what National Days of Service are, and how important volunteers are to the community.

There is a National Day of Service in almost every month. These are special days to get people to volunteer in their communities. In Louisiana, we focus on five days where we spearhead efforts to help our citizens get involved:

- January: Martin Luther King, Jr. Day
- April: National Volunteer Week
- April: Global Youth Service Day
- September: 9/11 Day of Remembrance and Service
- October: Make a Difference Day

Days of Service organizers usually have large events that make it easy to volunteer for an hour, a half-day, or a full day. The simple act of individuals coming together for a common goal makes a huge difference in the lives of our most vulnerable citizens. It also helps with our most critical social priorities such as education, healthy futures, affordable housing, economic opportunity and disaster recovery. Join us by volunteering in a project near you.
Question 18
Based on Source 1 and Source 2, which is a responsibility of volunteers?

A. to join a club in a community
B. to learn about designing houses
C. to travel to another place
D. to work well with other people

Question 19:
Based on Source 1, how did Nicholas Guillery make Louisiana a better place to live?

A. by getting to know new friends
B. by staying for an entire week
C. by helping people fix their homes
D. by agreeing with his teammates

Question 20:
Based on Source 2, which is a way a citizen can help solve a local issue?

A. practice to improve special skills
B. give time to a social organization
C. work hard at a job or a career
D. get to know people in nearby areas

Question 21:
Source 3 describes some important social issues. Which issue is Cheryl Bryant most likely helping by volunteering as shown in Source 2?

A. working with young children
B. assisting people during storms
C. teaching about being healthy
D. inviting others to help people

History of the Louisiana State Police

The first state highway police began to patrol and enforce traffic laws in 1922. At that time, the automobile was becoming an important part of American life. There were only sixteen officers to patrol the whole state.

By 1928, there were seventy police officers to keep the highways safe and help citizens during emergencies. In 1928, another part of the state police was formed to handle crime. These two groups were combined in 1936 to form the modern Louisiana State Police.

This 1960 billboard shows a Louisiana State Police officer. The billboard was meant to encourage people to drive safely.

The billboard says: Drive Carefully; Save a Life; John McKeithen Governor, Thomas Burbank, Director of Public Safety.

Question 27:
Based on Source 1 and Source 3, how have oil wells most changed life in Louisiana?

A. Oil wells brought many tourists into the state.
B. Oil wells increased the amount of land for farming.
C. Oil wells took the place of other businesses.
D. Oil wells started an industry that provides jobs.

Question 28:
Which statement best explains why there are fewer refineries in central Louisiana than in southern Louisiana, as shown in Source 2?

A. There are fewer gas stations in central Louisiana.
B. There are more oil wells in southern Louisiana.
C. There are fewer refinery workers in central Louisiana.
D. There is more need for oil in southern Louisiana.

Question 29:
Based on Source 2, which statement best describes the parts of Louisiana where refineries have the greatest economic effect?

A. The effect is greater in south Louisiana than it is in north Louisiana.
B. The effect is spread out evenly across Louisiana.
C. The effect is greater in northeast Louisiana than in southwest Louisiana.
D. The effect is limited to southern Louisiana.

Question 30:
Based on Source 2 and Source 3, why are rivers and ports important to the oil industry?

A. They are used to catch seafood for the workers.
B. They are used to provide steam to power trains.
C. They are used to produce goods made from oil.
D. They are used to ship oil around the world.
Question 31:
How does Source 4 show the importance of the oil industry in Louisiana?

A. It shows that people want to have jobs at oil refineries.
B. It shows that producers make a lot of money from oil wells.
C. It shows that oil is used to make many different products.
D. It shows that people need oil to send products to other places.

Career Profile: Firefighters

2015 Average Salary: $25,440–$34,240 per year in Louisiana

Education: Firefighters need a high school diploma and training in emergency medical services. Most firefighters are trained at a fire academy. They must pass written and physical tests.

Expected Job Demand: Better than average.

Job Description: Firefighters control and put out fires. They also help out whenever life, property, or the environment is at risk.
Interview with Teri Gilland, Captain, Ward Six Fire Protection District 1, Louisiana

Q: How did you decide you wanted to be a firefighter?

A: At the age of 18, my twin brother joined the local fire department. My husband was also a member of the fire department. After riding to a few fires with him, I saw that the department could use more volunteers. So I decided to join the department in 1992. I was unaware that this volunteer job would become my career.

Q: What would you tell people who want to be firefighters?

A: Never let anyone tell you that you cannot be a firefighter, or that the job is too tough for a girl to do. It is the most rewarding career that I could have ever dreamed of having. It is hard at times, and it takes a lot of physical effort and training, but it is worth it.

Career Profile: Civil Engineer

2015 Average Salary: $87,750–$110,050 in Louisiana

Education: Bachelor’s degree; government license required in most states.

Expected Job Demand: Better than average.

Job Description: Civil engineers plan, build, and manage construction projects. This includes roads, buildings, airports, tunnels, dams, bridges, and other projects. Civil engineers work in many different locations and conditions. Many spend time outdoors at construction sites so that they can solve problems while there.
Interview with Joseph Niles,
Engineering Manager, Louisiana

Q: What do you like best about being an engineer?

A: I always tried to learn from every experience.

Q: What would you tell people who want to be engineers?

A: Enjoy school, and don’t get down about having to miss out on some social activities because you have to study. All the hard work is an investment [act of spending money, time, or effort to get something in return] in yourself, and it will pay off in a few years.

Q: What can future engineers do to improve their learning?

A: I was a member of several organizations [groups of people with a common goal] while in college, including the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE). Being a member of NSBE helped me learn about the many types of jobs engineers can have.
