Regional Micro-Enterprise Credential: Certification Exam Study Guide
(Updated: June 12, 2017)

Teachers will have to help students prepare in six different areas to help them achieve a passing score on the Micro-Enterprise Credential certification exam:

1) Self-Assessment Key Terms – demonstrating an understanding of the behaviors required for successful small business employees and owners / entrepreneurs (25% of certification exam questions);

2) School versus Workplace Expectations – demonstrating an understanding of how the expectations of the working world are different (and more demanding) than those of high school (5% of certification exam questions);

3) Business Structure – demonstrating mastery of a limited number of concepts regarding business organization and the identity of state and federal agencies relevant to small business formation/operation (10% of certification exam questions);

4) Credit – demonstrating an understanding of: a) different types of credit; b) key financial terms relevant to credit applications; c) the structure and complexity of different types of credit applications; and d) the cost and availability of different types of credit (25% of certification exam questions);

5) Key Financial Terms and Business Concepts – demonstrating an understanding of a limited number of key financial terms and business concepts (30% of certification exam questions);

6) Business Ethics and Social Responsibility – demonstrating an understanding of a limited number of concepts regarding business ethics and social responsibility (5% of certification exam questions).

The Micro-Enterprise Credential Certification test will not include computation questions. Computation questions will likely be on Certiport’s international certification test.

This study guide will provide a series of preparation tips for teachers and students, along with 20 sample questions.

Teachers should use this study guide (as well as the questions on the pre-test) to help students prepare for the different types of questions that will be on the interim certification exam.

Teachers can then use the practice exam to provide students with a realistic certification exam experience. The practice exam will be available both online and on paper.

Students will take the actual interim certification exam online.
