RSD/OPSB Cooperative Endeavor Agreement Summary

Serving All Students, Improving Facilities, and Using Funds Efficiently

Since 2005, and the destruction of nearly 80% of the public school buildings in Orleans Parish by Hurricane Katrina, the Recovery School District (RSD) and Orleans Parish School Board (OPSB) have worked together to rebuild and renovate public school facilities in an effort to create a quality educational environment for all public school students. Since then, both systems have also worked toward transforming a once fractured educational environment into one that serves all children well and in a diverse number of ways. However, there is much progress to be made, and this cooperative endeavor agreement seeks to build upon the collaborative relationship between both systems in three distinct areas:

- 1) Educational programs and services that meet the needs of all students citywide;
- 2) Improving facilities; and
- 3) The efficient use of available funding and shared financial resources.

Over the past eight years, the Orleans Parish School Board has significantly improved its standing as an operator of public schools, as a charter school authorizer and as the taxing and bonding authority for all public schools in the City of New Orleans. OPSB has continued to manage, facilitate and support the development of a portfolio of high quality schools, raised its bond rating, and enhanced its financial and accounting systems in order to increase transparency and accountability to the citizens of New Orleans. OPSB addressed all previous financial concerns and, in 2012, exited high risk financial status. Since 2006 the OPSB has increased its enrollment by over 35%. This was accomplished by expanding existing high quality programs and adding five new schools. OPSB has also increased its overall letter grade from a C to an A and is currently the second highest performing school district in the State based on 2013 District Performance Scores. The OPSB's 89.3% graduation rate is the highest in Louisiana. Five OPSB schools have been designated as "high poverty, high performing" by the Louisiana Department of Education. Three of OPSB's charter schools are among the top five percent of public schools in the State; these including Benjamin Franklin High School, the top performing public school and Lake Forest Charter, which was recently named as a National Blue Ribbon School by the US Department of Education.

In that same span of time, the Recovery School District has worked to significantly raise the achievement level of students and build a system of autonomous schools that are held accountable for high academic, financial, and organizational performance standards and participating in equitable practices for all students. The RSD The percentage of RSD students in New Orleans performing at grade level has more than doubled from 2007 to 2013, from 23 percent to 57 percent, making RSD New Orleans the fastest growing district in the state six years running. Prior to Hurricane Katrina, only 5% of students in RSD eligible high schools in Orleans Parish were eligible for the Taylor Opportunity Program Scholarship (TOPS) program, which offers free in-state college tuition for students with qualifying grade point averages and ACT scores. Today, nearly 25% of students graduating from Recovery School District high schools in New Orleans are TOPS eligible, providing much needed scholarship money to make college a reality for many more students in New Orleans. In addition, the RSD has turned around a once-failing school system so that nearly every school in the RSD earned a passing letter grade in 2013. More than just passing, nearly 50% of RSD schools in New Orleans earned a letter grade of C or higher, with 25 RSD schools earning “Top Gains” designations. The RSD has also implemented a number of systems and processes to ensure equity for all students in a system of autonomous schools, such as the common enrollment process—OneApp, a single student Hearing Office with common student expulsion policies and procedures, and a differentiated funding model that ensures schools are provided the funding they need to adequately address the needs of students with disabilities.

To build upon this unprecedented momentum, both entities affirm their commitment to equitably serve all students in the parish with effective programming that meets the needs of at-risk and special needs students and ensure expanded access to quality facilities for more students. Together, we will build upon our commitment to transform the public schools in New Orleans into a world class system of schools that prepares all students for college and career.
