

Important News for NONPUBLIC SCHOOLS

July 20, 2023

Dear Colleagues,

As schools prepare to welcome back students and teachers, we are also preparing to enter the peak of hurricane season. Last week, we released our Hurricane Preparedness Playbook. This resource represents guidance of experts from the private sector, academia, and government.

The playbook was developed by the LDOE's Protect Louisiana Schools Hurricane Preparedness Commission (PLSHPC) and made possible through a partnership with AT&T. I launched the commission after discovering that the LDOE lacked the type of resources and guidance to protect Louisiana schools. It's the first statewide commission centered on creating operational best practices for school systems and leaders during natural disasters.

These are not mandates and this playbook is not meant to replace the comprehensive crisis plans you've developed alongside your local emergency management professionals. It's a collection of recommendations from individuals who have been in the "trenches" when it comes to leading through a hurricane. In my conversations with system leaders in the aftermath of Laura, Delta, and Ida, many of the questions and challenges were similar. This new resource synthesizes the voices and experiences of veteran professionals so that it can benefit school system leaders of today and tomorrow.
