

LDOE WEEKLY NEWSLETTER

August 9, 2022

Dear Colleagues,

After the impact of a global pandemic and two of the strongest hurricanes in our state's history, K-12 education is on the rise in Louisiana. Our 2021-22 LEAP scores show strong student growth. Students in grades 3-8 improved their mastery rates by three points in both math and ELA. Across our great state, 80 percent of school systems improved their mastery rate. You can find system and school results on our website.

We're seeing this progress because we kept schools open, strategically allocated resources, and developed innovative solutions to recover and accelerate student learning. This progress is a true testament to the dedication of our educators to maintain high standards for students no matter the circumstance. We still have work to do before we've fully recovered from the impact of the last two years, but there's excitement among our teachers and leaders to close that gap and continue moving our students forward.

Improving student outcomes is our top priority as educators. Our top responsibility is student safety. Your commitment to keeping students and educators safe was on display during our first statewide school safety summit last Thursday. Around 800 educators, law enforcement, elected officials, and support professionals participated in this inaugural event. What struck me most was the diversity of professionals at the table. We had school and system leaders, local and state law enforcement, fire and rescue, EMTs, 911 operators, and mental health professionals. Everyone was eager to share their perspectives, learn from one another, and build relationships that will ultimately lead to safer schools and stronger school climates.

Whether it's school safety or academics, it's vital we remain intentional about continuously setting the bar higher. We must elevate our expectations and push for that next step in our Louisiana comeback.

PAST DUE: Course Requirements for Interests and Opportunities

Please share this information with system leaders and accountability contacts.

To better measure the interests nurtured and opportunities provided by our schools, the Department has identified minimum requirements for non-Carnegie credit courses to receive credit in the Interests & Opportunities index. This sets clear minimum expectations and ensures substantial exposure to these enriching experiences. For accountability scores, this course information will come from the different collections outlined in the Interests and Opportunities guidance published in June 2022. Starting in the 2022-2023 school year, all non-Carnegie credit courses will be required to meet the parameters set below.

- Meet the requirements for awarding a Carnegie Unit; or
- Meet the following requirements for non-Carnegie Unit bearing courses:
- Be part of the normal school schedule and included on the master schedule so instructional minutes are documented and preserved.
- Courses should meet for at least 60 minutes each week over the course of an entire school year.
- Courses include graded course work and are content-rich in design.
- Courses are well-articulated and demonstrate a natural progression of learning over the years studied (i.e., students should not learn the same material from year to year).

Schools and school systems should follow these requirements when reporting arts, world languages and STEM courses for the Interests and Opportunities Index. Please return a copy of the Interests and Opportunities Course Requirements Superintendent Verification Form with a signature from the superintendent to accountability@la.gov as soon as possible.
